THE BEST OF SANDY DENNY

The Millennium Collection

Sandy Denny was the finest singer ever to emerge from the world of British Folk Rock, the spellbinding voice that drove Fairport Convention to first invent, and then reinvent, traditional music in the late 1960s. From old-fashioned waltzes to modern romances, from wistful ballads to timeless rockers, from gentle blues to grandiose celebrations, Denny's greatest ability was the ease with which she could step into any milieu she chose, and make it her own. As a songwriter, she was peerless. Her four solo albums abound with a spectacular eclecticism, ethereal and earthy in the passing of a breath, their lyrics simultaneously darkly intimate and instantly accessible.

The Best Of Sandy Denny: The Millennium Collection features 10 highlights drawn from the singer/songwriter's four beloved solo albums The North Star Grassman And The Ravens (1971), Sandy (1972), Like An Old Fashioned Waltz (1973) and Rendezvous (1977), as well as highlights from both Fairport Convention and Fotheringay. Each track has been newly digitally remastered from the original master tapes.

Sandy Denny's best known song, "Who Knows Where The Time Goes?," a hit for Judy Collins in 1969, is currently featured on the new Eva Cassidy album Imagine — once again introducing Sandy's genius to yet another generation of music listeners.
